	Note: A comprehension Intervention program Key Features: During their first session, each student takes LevelSet – an online reading placement test which results in a Lexile and reading level for each student. (Another version of the test is administered halfway through the academic or program year, and then again on the last day of sessions, as a summative assessment and measure of program success.) Once they have been placed in the program, students follow a simple, five-step process that improves vocabulary, comprehension and reading fluency, as well as writing and technology skills. Each of these five steps is based on best practices evolved out of decades of research. They are: Step 1. Set a schema. Step 2. Read for information. Step 3. Demonstrate mastery. Step 4. Construct meaning. Step 5. Form an opinion. S Includes a teacher and administrator version with a variety of reporting and lesson planning features.

Key Features: Literacy Navigator is designed to help students whose reading abilities are "at" or "almost at" grade level. It is for those students who are not strong comprehenders and who, therefore, struggle to read informational text and have problems on state reading tests. Literacy Navigator is a modular supplementary intervention that can be used 1) during school hours, 2) in after-school or weekend programs, or 3) during summer school. It is designed to help students develop the reading comprehension skills they need to navigate the texts used in their content-area courses and measured by high-stakes reading assessments. Literacy Navigator's approach targets students, including English language learners, who are comfortable with social language or who are adequate readers of literary text but struggle to comprehend content-area text.

America's Choice (Interim 2008)	Ramp-Up to Advanced Literacy (RUAL) Student Set Units 1-3: Dilemmas of Youth; Swallowing Stones; Migration Stories; Endangered Species	America's Choice, Inc.	2007	9	9781598963410	See Footnote 70%
	Note: Must be purchased as a complete package. Must have Teacher Editions for implementation. Correlation is to entire set. Key Features: The complexity and difficulty of this course's content are carefully matched to the standards, students' abilities and grade level, and time periods available for teaching. The content of the three units—Dilemmas of Youth, Migration Stories, and Endangered Species—is appropriate to the age and maturity level of the intended students. Dilemmas of Youth addresses topics pertinent to students at the 9th grade level, including dealing with peer pressure and taking personal responsibility for one's actions. These topics are engaging to these students and relevant to their growing maturity. Migration Stories and Endangered Species provide direct connections to students' studies in other content areas and a vehicle for connecting language and literacy learning with content in authentic ways and at a level of complexity that reflects the maturity level of the students.

	Note: Intervention program for comprehension. Recommended as "Resource Only". Key Features: The Reading Assistant is built around a responsive, speech-recognition based technology that literally "listens" to students as they read and provides real-time audio support when they struggle. A contextual Spanish-enabled vocabulary tool enables students to look up unfamiliar words and quizzes, both in-context and at end-of-text, assess comprehension. Students receive feedback on words needing further review and are encouraged to re-read the passage to develop reading fluency skills as they strive to meet the stated goal for that passage. The Reading Assistant also compiles records of fluency, comprehension, and specific difficulties, and also saves the reading session audio. Students can listen to the playback of their reading while attending to words identified as needing further review. Teachers and School Administrators can log in and measure fluency, vocabulary and comprehension growth at a student, class, school or district level and can listen to the audio of each and every reading session.

	Note: Comprehensive Intervention Program. Key Features Is an intervention program that provides intensive, individualized instruction for older struggling readers. Teacher led sessions for whole class and small groups –Students engage in individualized lessons in the software --. It collects data on each student's responses and adjusts instruction and provides high-interest, age-appropriate reading to that student's needs. Students receive continuous feedback and encouragement. Students work on independent reading in two ways: the program provides audiobooks that are read aloud by a narrator and interspersed with segments by a reading coach who models strategies used by successful readers. The program also includes a rich library of classic and newly created leveled books – both fiction and non-fiction with relevant, age-appropriate content. Includes a strong assessment component. The Scholastic Achievement Manager (SAM) collects and organizes student performance data and serves as a dashboard for supporting data-driven instruction, AYP accountability requirements and district-wide data aggregation for teachers, district administrators, and technology coordinators. You can import student data directly from your district's Student Information System into SAM. You can generate reports for students, classes, schools, and districts and link directly to standards-aligned resources that address core skills.

	Note: Requires teacher edition to be effective. Comprehensive intervention program. Content Standards correlations are low, program designed to meet the five key reading components. Skills based series. Key Features: Explicit, intensive, teacher-directed instructional method founded on proven design (Direct Instruction). Lessons are scripted to ensure consistency and that specific instruction occurs in sequence. Tightly sequenced lessons provide the structure and practice struggling readers need to master high-priority skills and strategies. Ongoing assessment enables you to adjust pacing, provide immediate feedback, and offer meaningful reinforcement. Program is organized into two strands and four instructional levels: Decoding and Comprehension . Decoding and Comprehension can be used as a supplemental intervention or combined for use as a comprehensive program. Students are taught at their instructional level. Decoding programs are appropriate for students who do not read accurately, whose oral reading is choppy and plodding, as well as for less fluent readers who cannot focus their attention on what text means. Comprehension programs are appropriate for students who need to develop vocabulary, background information, and reasoning skills that are the foundation of comprehension. Fully integrated assessments monitor progress and guide movement through the program. Professional Development can be accessed at any time with SRA Teaching Tutor CD-ROM.
